Pop, films, comedy – with

SITUATION COMEDY is full of serious actors. Theatrical heavyweights Harry H Corbett and Wilfrid Brambell worked wonders in Steptoe and Son and there was Frances de la Tour in Rising Damp. The list is long and distinguished, and with Gimme Gimme Gimme, Kathy Burke has joined it. She earned her comedy spurs as sidekick to Harry Enfield's Wayne Slob and Kevin the teenager. As for Gimme Gimme Gimme, Burke's character shares a flat with a gay friend (James Dreyfus, pictured with Burke), the comedy deriving from their pursuit of the same men. Until a year or so ago, Burke still lived in the one-bedroom council flat she shared with her late father. She has now given it back to the council and moved upmarket, as perhaps befits the recipient of the Cannes Film Festival's Best Actress award, which she won for her performance in Gary Oldman's Nil By Mouth. On returning from Cannes, there were 45 congratulatory messages, one of which was a fax from film-maker Ken Loach. 'When I got that fax ... that was the first time I burst into tears,' she said. It was Loach's film Kes that made her want to become an actress. So it is not just Burke who owes him a debt of gratitude. The rest of us do, too.

Gimme Gimme Gimme,
UK Gold, from Saturday 9th, 10.20pm

Emma Bunton quite likes being a Spice Girl, but really she wants to be Sandy in Grease, an ambition reinforced every time she listens to Summer Nights, by John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John. Such are the fascinating secrets unveiled in Emma, the new weekly pop show hosted by Bunton. She also reveals the first record she ever bought (Mickey by Toni Basil) and owns up to a fondness for Abba's Knowing Me, Knowing You. Apparently, Bunton – currently hard at work on the new Spice Girls album – is a slick telly presenter. An embryonic Zoe Ball, perhaps. Whatever, a second series of Emma has already been commissioned. 'I loved the whole thing, from writing my own scripts to giggling on set with the hair and make-up artists,' she says. 'I can't wait to see what it looks like on screen.' She plans, she adds, to curl up in her bedroom and watch it with her mum. We would expect no less from the artist still best-known to the world as Baby Spice.

FilmFour starts the month with an evening of unencrypted entertainment, which means non-subscribers can sample the delights of the channel for free. The theme of the night is Directors' Firsts and comprises the debut feature efforts of seven film-makers. The evening starts at 6.00pm with Orson Welles's hugely influential Citizen Kane, which is followed by Baz Luhrmann's warm-hearted comedy Strictly Ballroom at 8.10pm. There's a chance to admire The Hard Case, a short by Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels director Guy Ritchie at 10.00pm, and Dennis Hopper's seminal biker movie Easy Rider zooms along at 10.40pm. Bruce Robinson's Withnail & I (its star, Richard E Grant is pictured) staggers by at 12.25am, while the solo debut of Terry Gilliam, Jabberwocky, airs at 2.10am. The entertainment concludes at 3.55am with Robert Rodriguez's no-budget action flick El Mariachi.

FilmFour, Friday 1st, from 6.00pm

Paramount Comedy Channel is celebrating the best of British comedy, starting with Harry Hill. On stage, with his vast shirt collars, pens in breast pocket and brothel creepers, Hill is a very odd bod indeed. In person, however, he is disappointingly normal. I had lunch with him once and he was charming but almost defiantly unfunny, offering only a single, albeit very good, one-liner: 'Why are people who mend shoes so good at cutting keys?' Hill was once a junior doctor but gave up medicine when he failed the first part of the exam to get into the Royal College of Physicians. Of course, the logical career step was to become a stand-up comic.

a punchline from Naz!

PRINCE NASEEM HAMED has told fight fans to expect something new when he faces Cesar Soto on Friday 22nd to defend his WBO featherweight title live on Sky Box Office 3. The world title unification bout takes place at the Joe Louis Stadium in Detroit, and this time it should be a real test.

Soto, the WBC champion, is a tough Mexican who is a veteran of some 63 fights, of which he has won all but ten. But Hamed goes into the bout with a new trainer in the shape of Emanuel Steward and says he is sharper than ever. 'I had been going to the gym for 17 years and doing the same set routine and getting bored, but now I'm with a legendary trainer who will go down in history as one of the best trainers that ever lived,' he said. 'I've learned totally new tricks in boxing, different shots, different counter-punches, being on balance in different ways and coming back with different combinations. It's unbelievable. At one time in my life I thought, because I wasn't getting taught any more, I had covered every angle. But now I know different.' Hamed has got married, had a son, changed trainers and matured over the last few years. But don't expect him to be as mellow in the ring as he is out of it.

'I am the most devastating puncher in the world as a featherweight. Nobody in the division punches as hard as I do – in my heart I know that is a fact. I want to become a boxing great and this fight is the next one I have to win to get there.

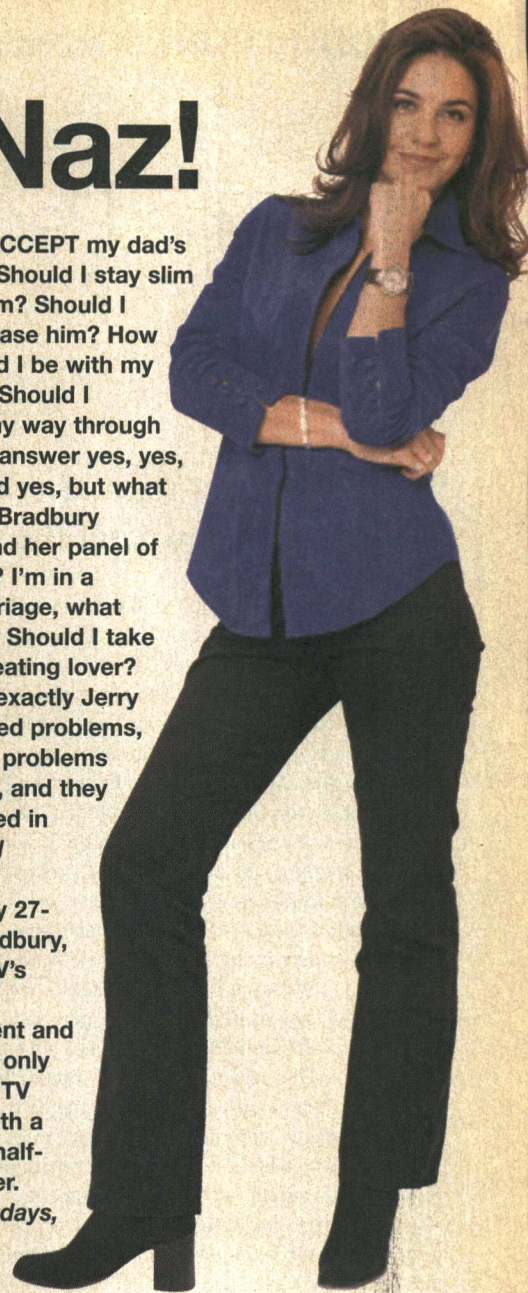

'Soto is a good fighter and I have a lot of respect for him. I see him as a durable and experienced fighter – and as a world champion who is going to get knocked out!'

SHOULD I ACCEPT my dad's Thai bride? Should I stay slim to please him? Should I swing to please him? How tough should I be with my junkie son? Should I lap-dance my way through college? I'd answer yes, yes, yes, very and yes, but what would Julia Bradbury (pictured) and her panel of experts say? I'm in a sexless marriage, what should I do? Should I take back my cheating lover? They're not exactly Jerry Springer-sized problems, but they are problems nonetheless, and they are addressed in Chat's Moral Dilemmas, presented by 27-year-old Bradbury, who is GMTV's former LA correspondent and possibly the only Dublin-born TV presenter with a half-Welsh, half-Greek mother. Living, weekdays, 10.50am

October is a big month on Sky Premier. Richard Jobson returns with his Movie Talk and begins by looking at Stanley Kubrick's final film, Eyes Wide Shut. Jobson's guests include Malcolm McDowell, who starred in the director's most controversial film, A Clockwork Orange. Also, a new 10-part series called Illuminations invites celebrated film buffs, among them directors Steven Spielberg, Terry Gilliam and John Schlesinger, to relate their thoughts about the medium. The cinema is the only art form, suggests Spielberg, 'to touch all five senses at once'. Schlesinger recalls the first film he saw, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. He didn't understand why the Wicked Queen was jealous of Snow White. He considered the Wicked Queen much more beautiful. Movie Talk, from Friday 1st, 11.00pm. Illuminations, from Wednesday 6th, 9.00pm

The People's Harry Enfield

In the first of a regular column previewing new shows in the making, we get the low-down on Harry Enfield

A BIT of a coup for Sky Premier was the recent signing of Harry Enfield in a brand new series called The People's Harry Enfield. The new show, which will be commissioned and funded by the channel, is still in gestation but looks set to kick off in May 2000. Referred to by the Sky Press Office as a 'fly-on-the-wall-comedy-docu-drama', the 12-part series of half-hour programmes will evolve in a very novel and democratic way using ideas sent in to Enfield by Joe Public.

In August this year, The Sun newspaper sent out a plea to its readers to dream up eccentric characters for Enfield to work on. From those ideas – they could be anything from plotlines and personalities to catchphrases – Enfield will select and hone the best of them. This organic process of comedy will be filmed in true docusoap style from the early production stages with the public's input, through to the final take when Enfield comes up with the goods, giving insight into the comic process.

Of his previous comic incarnations, of which there are many – Stavros, Tim Nice But Dim, Wayne Slob and the cheesy Dave Nice – Enfield says: 'All my characters have been based on nutters I've met.' And he is once again looking forward to working with the public's very own brand of nutter!

He is also very excited about his new project: 'The People's Harry Enfield will be a truly new way forward for sketch comedy. I have been looking for something that really challenges me and Sky Premier are giving me the platform and creative freedom to make this unique idea come to life – and it's not just about "loads of money"!' He's rumoured to have signed a £1m deal to move to Sky.

The series will be produced by multi-award-winning production company Tiger Aspect, who have worked with Enfield before on the award-winning Harry Enfield and Chums and definitely have the Midas touch in the comedy arena. They have also been responsible for the highly successful comedies Blackadder, The Vicar of Dibley, Ruby Wax and Mr Bean.

Of the new series, Sky is naturally delighted. Says Elisabeth Murdoch, MD of Sky Networks: 'We are honoured to have a comic talent as admired and respected as Harry Enfield as part of the Sky family. The People's Harry Enfield is a fantastic concept and perfect for Sky Premier.'

You don't want to do that! Harry Enfield puts his faith in the public for his new venture with Sky

WATCH OUT!

● If you thought Blackadder met his end when he went over the top, be prepared to be proved wrong. Blackadder is back and will this time be journeying in Baldrick's homemade time machine, popping in on some of history's key moments along the way. Starring the formidable Rowan Atkinson and a host of established cast members, Time for Blackadder will be broadcast on Sky in 2001. If you can't wait until then, you'll just have to visit the Millennium Dome, where this special will be shown in the entertainment venue, Skyscape, throughout 2000.

● Fresh from the creators of Rugrats comes Rocket Power, which premieres on Nickelodeon next month. Otto and Reggie Rocket (pictured right) are fearless siblings who enjoy nothing better than catching a wave. If you're into extreme sports, you'll love it!

● Andy Kershaw brings the celebrated Disappearing World bang up-to-date as he revisits the series of that name on Discovery in November. It charts the challenges that former ancient civilisations have experienced in the past and are set to meet in future.

Run rabbit run

The classic tale of Watership Down is set to win the hearts of children all over again in a new animated series on ITV2. Words: Pauline McLeod

DEEP in the basement of Abbey Road studios, the most exquisite sounds fill the air. But while

Sir Andrew Lloyd Webber talks by phone from the control room with Mike Batt, who's conducting the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in Studio 1, TV producer Simon Vaughan checks his watch anxiously.

Hardly surprising. For this illustrious room, where The Beatles recorded many classic songs, has been booked for three hours; the services of the Royal Philharmonic is costing £500 a minute; Simon is still not happy about those crashing cymbals; and there are only 15 minutes left on the clock.

Ignoring his nerves, the 29-year-old takes a deep breath and says he thinks the startling clash at the end of In Fields of Sun, which leads into the pastoral strings of the first bars of Bright Eyes, is too loud. After all, the song is being recorded for a children's TV series.

Andrew and Mike, consummate pros that they are, concur agreeably and Simon's expression lightens considerably. One small step for him, maybe, but all part of the giant and audacious leap he's making in the world of animation.

For this former programming acquisitions executive is one of the brains behind the hugely ambitious animated TV series of Watership Down. This small screen version of the book and hit film, which runs for a total of 26 episodes and starts on ITV2 this month, boasts a star-studded voice cast that includes the likes of Rik Mayall, Dawn French, Stephen Fry and Jane Horrocks.

For those of you not old enough to remember, the best-selling novel, which was written by Richard Adams in 1968 and has sold more than 50 million copies, went on to break box office records in Britain ten years later when it was adapted into a feature film. Its theme song Bright Eyes, written by Mike Batt and sung by Art Garfunkel, reached number one in six countries.

Now, more than 20 years later, a new soundtrack album has been produced by Mike that includes Cerys Matthews of Catatonia on Thank You Stars and Boyzone's Stephen Gately singing a haunting new version of Bright Eyes, which is being released as a single this month.

Not only that, but both John Hurt and Richard Briers, who were among the voice cast of the original movie, leapt at the chance to be involved, although they're now playing somewhat older rabbits. Nigel Hawthorne was also keen to take part in the £6 million TV series but commitments elsewhere prevented him.

Simon was only a youngster when he saw this tale of a bunch of rabbits who leave the safety of their warren to set off on a perilous journey into the unknown and find their new home in the lush pastures of

'It is as honest, as dangerous and as adventurous as nature is.' Simon Vaughan, producer Watership Down

Berkshire's Watership Down – ironically, 3,000 acres of which Sir Andrew Lloyd Webber has owned for the past 25 years. After two years of negotiating with Martin Rosen, who wrote, directed and produced the film and had acquired all entertainment rights from Richard Adams, Simon's ambition has finally come to fruition. And now his entire life has become over-run with rabbits!

By Christmas there'll be a video released, soft toys in the shops and, with the blessing and permission of Richard Adams, new fiction created.

'We've updated it to the Nineties,' explains Simon. 'Richard Adams wrote the novel partly with the memory of his army regiment in mind, and so inevitably you end up with this squad of very strong characters. So, rightly or wrongly, we have tried to soften the edges without dumbing it down, tried to make it accessible without making it infantile.'

'It is as honest, as dangerous and as adventurous as nature is, but where there are complex social themes and layers that have a more Orwellian-type subtext, we have really simplified it. Hard and fast fans of the book who treat it as a huge intellectual work, which it is, may raise eyebrows. But their kids will love it, and hopefully the series will expose a whole new audience to one of the greatest works of fiction there is.'

Which is precisely why Dawn French was keen to play the voice of Buttercup, the generous, good-natured bunny who features in the Christmas video – well, that and the fact that she could notch up a few Brownie points at home! 'I win really huge points with my daughter if she can respect me in anything she likes to watch. Normally she doesn't like to watch anything I do but I know she'll want to watch this.'

And Stephen Gately, who not only sings Bright Eyes but also voices Blackavar, the plucky, brave and rebel rabbit, adds: 'There are so many talented people giving their voices and it is just a massive privilege to be working with them.'

IVORY POWER

Meet Ivory, the glamorous former stuntwoman who's flooring the wrestling world with her looks, feistiness and charm. Jane Oddy talks to a woman of many talents. Photograph: Justine Bohan

WITH her bronzed muscular body and mane of red hair, World Wrestling

Federation superstar Ivory could turn heads on the strength of her striking looks alone.

This slim-waisted diva also has the strength to floor most men with a shoulder throw and could effortlessly have them pinned on the canvas in a half-nelson.

Yet Ivory – real name Lisa Moretti – is no terrifying Amazon and believes firmly that hurling other girls around the ring does not exclude her being feminine.

She has absolutely no problem with her sexuality and loves the attention she gets from ringside admirers who flock to see her in action: 'When people hear you're a wrestler, they imagine some huge butch woman. Let's just say they're shocked when they meet me. All the women in the WWF look gorgeous in my opinion and men love ladies that look good,' she drawls huskily.

Despite standing a petite 5ft 3in, she is a powerhouse of taut sinew and honed muscle and has battled to become the undisputed ladies champion. 'But I'd say I'm a woman first and a wrestler second. I used to work as a make-up artist so I'm really into cosmetics and pampering myself. I have my nails done and regular facials.'

Unfazed by the fact that she could suffer permanent injury from a tenacious opponent, she boasts proudly: 'I haven't broken a bone yet. I've been lucky. The hits, punches and kicks that look most ferocious, I don't feel at all. It's an acting job.'

But the 37-year-old former stunt woman accepts that an element of danger does come with the territory and reveals that her cleverly camouflaged black eye was the result of a recent head injury, proving that wrestling is not always skilfully choreographed theatrics. The knock, which happened after her fiercest rival, Jackie of The Pretty Mean Sisters, kicked her in the head, was bad enough for medics to rush her to hospital for a brain scan in LA: 'She's tough. She sends most of us home broken,' she shrugs.

Ivory is in town promoting the sell-out WWF Rebellion at Birmingham NIA on Saturday, October 2, featuring superstars such as Stone Cold and The Rock.

Across the Atlantic wrestling is a phenomenon and is second only to basketball as the country's most watched TV sport. Californian-born Ivory is hopeful that the latest showpiece will win new fans in this country. She is centre stage with the infamous Debra and China: 'The British fans are enthusiastic and a lot more polite.'

Her larger-than-life personality really comes into its own behind the ropes: 'As Ivory I'm feisty. I invite girls from the audience to fight me. I get one girl in the ring, then I proceed to show her my champion's belt and say how good it would look on her – and then I whack her over the head with it!'

The mock battle is all staged but to the audience, the spat looks real: 'Of course we have to find a woman who knows how to fight without getting hurt. It's like a soap opera, theatre-style combined with a lot of action.'

She insists that away from the ring, she's a pussycat: 'At home I'm Lisa and I like cooking and playing with my cats. I love quiet time but I'm always energetic.'

After graduating in a degree in public relations, she fell into wrestling by chance when she joined a girlfriend for an audition for a show called Gorgeous Ladies of Wrestling (GLOW). After her first training session she was hooked and worked on the show for four years. She came back to the sport earlier this year when she joined the WWF.

'I work hard but I enjoy it. Even falling down! It's still thrilling to me, kicking butt, having my butt kicked. I go back to the locker room and I'm exhilarated.'

Her unusual career has led to difficulties with her boyfriend, a 47-year-old stuntman: 'Let's just call him Ivory's guy. It's very hard to have a relationship in this job. He's jealous about me working with so many men. He's had to adjust to it. But he's my biggest fan.'

'It's not easy to find someone who can handle me. I don't want to go to bed with a guy whose biceps are smaller than mine!'

'But I would never give up wrestling. I know in my life, if I haven't got job satisfaction, then I can't have a good relationship because I'm not happy.'

Eyes down for the BIG National Code & Number Changes

The National Code and Number Changes are a BIG reorganisation of the UK's telephone numbering system.

Increased demand for phone numbers, for example for mobile phones and Internet access, means that the UK is running short of new numbers. The changes will create a Code Family which will allow phone users to easily identify the type of call they are making, and at what rate they will be charged, together with ensuring we have plenty of new numbers in store for the future.

It is now possible to call any of the areas in the table opposite using the new codes and local numbers. When dialling locally within the 6 areas, continue to use existing local numbers until 22 April 2000. Old codes and local numbers will also continue to work for a short 'changeover period'. The changes will only affect the numbers dialled - not the cost of the call!

By April 2001 all old and new numbers for the following services will also change; mobile/pager codes will begin 07, special rate codes will begin 08 and premium rate codes will begin 09.

For further information on the changes visit our web site or call Customer Services.

NEW SERIES

ITV2

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY
SATURDAY 2ND, 10.00PM

SHE MAY be 36, always a worrying time for any actress, but as far as Michelle Collins is concerned she is calling the shots for the first time ever and seems to have broken the soap stereotype.

Scheming, sinful Cindy Beale is dead and buried after she left EastEnders last year, but Michelle's acting career has never been hotter.

'I'd had some wonderful times on the show but I wanted to stretch myself and that's what I'm starting to do,' she says.

'This year has been important for me both professionally and personally. After playing Cindy for so long, it's like coming out into the big, wide world.'

Television's favourite platinum blonde is back on our screens in the gritty new psychological drama Daylight Robbery, in which she plays an Essex housewife who turns to crime with a gang of hard-up girlfriends in a bid to make ends meet.

The four-parter, which concludes on ITV2 this month, instantly attracted Michelle, who has been flooded with offers since leaving the top-rating soap: 'The story really appealed to me. The role was tough mentally and physically, but I find the idea of women and crime absolutely fascinating, it's just not the norm.'

'The series doesn't condone violence at all and the message is that crime doesn't pay. These women are caught up in a maelstrom of madness that they can't really get out of.'

None of the four women have ever had any links to crime, but when Collins's character, nouveau riche Kathy, discovers

Blonde ambition

She's left Albert Square's scheming Cindy well and truly behind. Now Michelle Collins stars as an Essex armed robber.

Interview: JANE ODDY

Far from her usually glamorous image, Michelle wore a balaclava and wielded a machine gun in Daylight Robbery: 'I used to scare myself looking in the mirror with the mask on!'

that her husband has vanished with all their savings, leaving her alone with their two children and a huge mortgage, she and her three friends, each of them with similarly demanding circumstances, turn daring:

'All the women have different reasons for being drawn to crime. They start as amateurs and have a few bungled attempts but then they start to become hardened criminals,' she explains.

Playing armed gangster Kathy meant that Michelle had to learn how to use an Uzi machine gun and wear a balaclava: 'I used to scare myself looking in the mirror with the mask on!' she laughs.

'I'd never used a gun before and you don't know what to expect because you get this huge kick-back, and when we were filming I was scared I'd hit a cameraman.'

Michelle is all smiles as she discusses her latest role, but she has paid a high price for her ambition and independence of mind. Her tempestuous relationship with her Italian boyfriend Fabrizio Tassalini finally came to an end last year and now she is left with their two-year-old daughter Maia – and doing her best not to spoil her too much.

Charming and chatty, Michelle is candid about the demise of their relationship: 'Fabrizio and I loved each other but we couldn't be together. I do need a man who can put up with the madness of my life,' she shrugs.

'He wanted to settle down and have a traditional family life with a woman who is a wife and mother, rather than a career woman. After so many rows and making up, you have to decide that enough is enough. It's quite nice not to have a man around for once in my life. I've got my daughter and my job and I've got no one telling me what to do.'

Even though she frequently touches wood throughout our interview, Michelle confesses she panicked when she left EastEnders last year. 'I could have sunk without trace,' she admits. 'It's happened to people before and it'll happen to people in the future.' But she's has work lined up for the next 12 months, including a second series of Real Women for the BBC, and what's more she has snapped up the rights to a trilogy of books – the titles of which she's not prepared to reveal just yet – so she can star in the screen adaptations. There's even talk of a Hollywood movie.

She is currently in Portugal filming a second series of Sunburn, a drama about the lives and loves of a group of holiday reps.

Michelle says that she has no idea what the future holds for her. She has filmed a rural comedy called Uprising, in which she plays a zany blonde, and has long curly hair extensions for the role: 'Next year I would like to take some time off. I think I'm going to have so much stuff coming out, I think viewers will say: "Get that face off the telly!"'

But she is aware there is little certainty in her profession: 'I'm doing the best I can. Before EastEnders I was a jobbing actress and that's what I am again. And I've always got my beautiful daughter. She's very funny and sociable, a proper little comedienne. She's absolutely gorgeous!'

Older-man

Hollywood loves to portray romances between young women and men old enough to be their fathers. 'A Perfect Murder' stars Gwyneth Paltrow and Michael Douglas (age difference 29 years) tell Garth Pearce how they feel about the older-man syndrome

MICHAEL DOUGLAS

Michael Douglas can't quite believe his luck. He's 55 and shows every sign that he's enjoyed some marvellous dinners. Yet he still plays a convincing husband to beautiful Gwyneth Paltrow, 26, in A Perfect Murder. Away from the screen, he's reportedly made the stunning Catherine Zeta-Jones (pictured above with Douglas), aged 30, a marriage proposal.

Douglas makes no effort to stop smiling as he says, 'I am a very fortunate guy, aren't I?' His marriage is now over so he's free to plan his future.

He's a versatile and hugely talented actor and that has kept him at the top after having to wait until his late-thirties to enjoy stardom. From his first huge box office success, Romancing the Stone in 1984, he has established himself as a movie big hitter. His films have sometimes fallen short of expectations, but his performances have been consistently sound.

He was powerful in Basic Instinct, which set Sharon Stone's career on fire; he dominated Wall Street, announcing that 'greed is good', a performance for which he won an Oscar for Best Actor. Equally, he can play a victim. He was stalked by Glenn Close in Fatal Attraction, was sexually harassed by Demi Moore in Disclosure and found himself caught up in a nightmarish chain of events in The Game.

In A Perfect Murder, as wealthy commodities trader Steven Taylor, he's a mixture of both victim and aggressor. He is jealous of his young wife Emily, played by Paltrow, and plans his revenge for her affair with a handsome art dealer, played by cult character actor Viggo Mortensen.

But Douglas is clearly at ease with the issue of the great age gap between leading men and their female co-stars. He has gone from partnering Kathleen Turner, ten years his junior, in the aforementioned Romancing the Stone and Jewel in the Nile, and the dark comedy War of the Roses to Paltrow, nearly 30 years younger.

'That is only a reflection of real life,' he says, with the knowledge that Zeta-Jones seems ready to ignore the quarter of a century gap between their ages. 'It is also how Hollywood works. You just have to accept it.'

Perhaps so. Particularly for men. As Michelle Pfeiffer once said after being the romantic interest for Sean Connery in The Russia House: 'I doubt if I will ever live to see the day when Hollywood casts a woman in her forties or fifties opposite a man ten or 15 years younger.'

At least she was only 27 years younger than Connery. In this ever widening merry-go-round, big Sean's ego has gone crazy. His latest on-screen romance is with Zeta-Jones, a whopping 39 years younger, in Entrapment.

Away from the camera, Douglas sometimes manages to look like a Sixties throwback. He prefers worn, casual clothes and a laid-back attitude:

'Looking back, I was probably an idealistic hippie,' he says.

'There were long discussions into the night at college about all kinds of issues, from capitalism to Vietnam.

'I like to think I've kept something of that free spirit throughout my life. But I also recognise that I've been greedy, wanting to make it big with everything I've done.

'I can't help it. That's just the way I am.'

GWYNETH PALTROW

Bruce Paltrow, Gwyneth's TV producer father, was nervous when he heard she had been cast opposite Michael Douglas in A Perfect Murder. 'Does he have to touch you?' he asked her, uncertainly. 'No, daddy,' she lied.

Gwyneth knew of her father's concerns about sex on screen: 'He has never liked it,' she says. 'Especially when it came to his own daughter. I swore off nudity for years because I didn't want him to have to see me in that state on the screen.'

Gwyneth, who won a Best

MIND THE GAP

Coming a close second to the Sean Connery-Catherine Zeta-Jones age gap in Entrapment (39 years) is Woody Allen. He was 38 years older than Juliette Lewis in his 1992 guiltfest Husbands and

Wives. Behind Allen comes Paul Newman. Thirty-six years separated his character, Louisiana governor Earl K Long, and that of Lolita Davidovitch's eponymous stripper in the fact-based Blaze, while there was a 32-year gap between Newman and Melanie Griffith in Nobody's Fool. Lauren Bacall was 19 when she made her debut in the 1944 movie To Have and Have Not, falling in love with co-star Humphrey Bogart, 45, and later marrying him. Refreshingly, the recent remake of The Thomas Crown Affair stars Pierce Brosnan, 46, making love on screen with 45-year-old Rene Russo. But normal service will be resumed when Brosnan is seen in the arms of 27-year-old Denise Richards in his next James Bond film, The World Is Not Enough.

Top-Bottom: Juliette Lewis and Woody Allen hit it off, Lauren Bacall falls for Humphrey Bogart and Sean Connery and Michelle Pfeiffer make a match

A PERFECT MURDER
FROM WEDNESDAY 20TH

Actress Oscar earlier this year for her performance in Shakespeare in Love, put her inhibitions aside for both her character of Shakespeare's lover and her part in last year's modern-day adaptation of Great Expectations.

So she approached A Perfect Murder – and the age gap between her and screen husband Michael Douglas – with a pragmatic attitude.

'Michael plays an older man, who is corrupted,' she says. 'He is under threat of losing his financial wealth and is also concerned about losing his wife to another man.'

'My character is young and rich and has the qualities he craves most – youth and money. She is his trophy. He cannot bear to face the prospect of not having her all to himself.'

'The age difference made perfect sense to me, in that context. I am not strongly against such a difference, although I have now been in many movies where my on-screen lover has been more or less the same age, such as in Sliding Doors.

'But if the audience is being asked to accept that there is a straightforward romance between a woman in her twenties and a man in his fifties or sixties, then that is to suspend belief. It has to be a strong plot to back that up.'

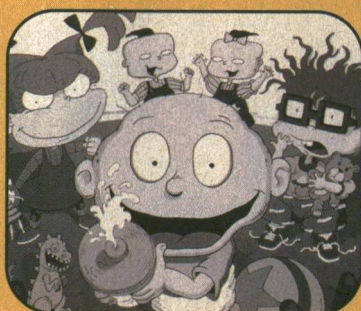

A Perfect Murder, which was inspired by Alfred Hitchcock's 1954 film Dial M for Murder, presents sound reasons for the relationship. And for once, Paltrow is allowed to play a stylish woman – which she clearly is off-screen.

TO BE THE BEST
THURSDAY 7TH, 14TH,
8.00PM

OVER 20 years, the hugely successful Barbara Taylor Bradford has written 15 best-selling novels and is published in 89 countries. Her current sales exceed 60 million. Nine of her books have been turned into mini-series, and she will be publishing her 16th tome, Where You Belong, next year.

Her most recent book, A Sudden Change of Heart, has just been published in paperback. It's also the 20th anniversary of her first success, A Woman of Substance, which was turned into a TV mini-series (on Carlton Select next month) by husband Bob and starred Jenny Seagrove. This month, To Be the Best is being re-shown on Carlton Select.

Despite the success that she has already achieved, Barbara is still ambitious. She shuts herself away in her elegantly furnished study in Manhattan, spending up to ten months a year slogging away, and often starting at 5.30am as the deadline looms. She can't be doing it for the money, so what drives her on?

'Money has nothing to do with it. I've never written for money. I write because I have to. My head is full of all these characters. What else would I do? I express myself through my books. I always have, since I was a child. I didn't suddenly start writing at 40.'

She began writing at seven and sold her first short story to a children's magazine at the age of 12 for 10s 6d. She had written and ditched four books before hitting the jackpot with A Woman of Substance.

Twenty years on, despite her phenomenal success, she still possesses the same unstoppable energy, drive and need to succeed. 'I still have to do my best, that's me, I can't do less. I don't take success for granted, you are only as good as your last book!'

Honesty is one of her trademarks. 'People say, "You

This is going to hurt me more than you

Meet Ruth England, intrepid presenter and Indiana Jane of National Geographic's adventurous new series, Explorer's Journal.

WE'VE ALL, at some time, from the safety of the sofa, thought: 'I could do that.' When you see the Explorer's Journal you'll wish you could, as the programme travels the world bringing to your screen unusual cultures, endangered and dangerous wildlife, hard-core adventure and exploration, and stunning natural phenomena. But if you speak to Ruth England – the Indiana Jane presenter of the National Geographic Channel's new documentary adventure series – you'd realise that it's a tough, tough job.

Ruth is familiar to most of us wearing a business suit (yes, that's her in the jungle fatigues) as a presenter on Channel 5 news. But she's had more than her fair share of dangerous adventures, having previously worked as a photo-journalist and for a Human Rights organisation, living with the Iban tribe of Sarawak in Malaysia.

'That was an amazing experience. I was out there on my own.

When I got there they sat me out on the only chair and all sat at my feet, which was completely weird. And they were saying things like, "Have you come from the Queen of England to take Malaysia back as an English colony?"'

Ruth stayed with the Iban for three months, learning the language and working with them to preserve their way of life. 'Every morning I'd get up with the tribe and we'd go and wash in the nearby river. When I actually came back out from the interior I picked up a local newspaper and, in a village further down the river, one of the local people had been eaten by a crocodile. I'm quite glad I found that out after.

'Once I fell down a steep embankment. When you're in that environment, you don't want to put your hands out and grab hold of a hanging-down creeper in case it's a snake, so I just fell absolutely flat on my face on top of some sort of giant toad, which spurted out a huge jet of liquid. But I think it was probably more scary for the creature that I fell on than it was for me.'

For the first episode of Explorer's Journal, Ruth travelled to Iceland with world-class kayaker Shaun Baker, as he attempted to kayak over three giant waterfalls.

'The main thrust of their water comes from melting glaciers, and the water is an opaque, creamy brown colour so you can't see where the rocks are. It was terrifying, but incredibly exciting. I was thinking: "I'm talking to this man now and in two-and-a-half minutes he'll go over the lip of that waterfall and I genuinely don't know if he'll come out." But he's very controlled, and he obviously does his background research on the river and has a hell of a lot of experience behind him, so he minimises the risk. But all the same there is an element of when do we turn the cameras off.'

Ruth's no wuss when it comes to getting involved herself. 'I had a go at kayaking – which I used to do in my youth – but I hadn't done it in a while. I was kayaking with Shaun on this geo-thermal lake, so it's red-hot water we're kayaking on, and I was suddenly thinking: "I'm in a plastic canoe." That was unnerving.'

For her next Explorer's Journal adventure, Ruth's off to Florida. 'I'm going out there to do some work with the Seminole Indians in the Everglades. That'll be fun, but I'm dreading the mosquitoes because I'm particularly bad with them. My back goes like a page of braille.' So if you're watching Explorer's Journal and suffering from armchair envy, spare a thought for Ruth's back.

The Satanic Rites
of Dracula

As FilmFour unleashes a season of vampire movies in the run-up to Halloween, Kim Newman sinks his teeth into one of the channel's Hammer horror offerings

Fangs for the memories

THE last of the seven-film series starring Christopher Lee, which began with Hammer's Dracula in 1958, 1973's The Satanic Rites of Dracula (which airs on FilmFour on Monday 11th and Thursday 28th) is best remembered for the especially absurd way it kills off its villain. Dracula, thwarted in his plan to unleash a new strain of bubonic plague on the world, and thus commit an elaborate suicide by destroying the human race upon which he feeds, is lured into the woods by arch-enemy Van Helsing (Peter Cushing) and gets stuck in a hawthorn tangle, which apparently has anti-vampire potency because Jesus's crown of thorns was made from hawthorn. Van Helsing plucks a handy length of wood from a nearby picket-fence and impales the vampire for the last of many times, and the Count shrivels away, via patented crumbling effects, into a skeleton, and then an inverted crucifix-shaped scatter of white ash. That's right: Dracula is finally destroyed by a common shrub.

A direct sequel to Dracula AD 1972, with that film's screenwriter, Don Houghton (then dividing his time between Hammer and episodes of Doctor Who), and desperately trendy director, Alan Gibson, back on board. The Satanic Rites of Dracula was filmed under the title Dracula Is Dead and Well and Living in London. Lee, who finally refused to do any more Hammer Draculas after this (he was replaced by John Forbes-Robertson for the kung fu horror Legend of the Seven Golden Vampires), gets all of 14 lines. He delivers most of them with ill-concealed distaste, even adopting a cod Bela Lugosi accent when the Count is disguising himself (appropriately) as a reclusive London property developer and media tycoon. Cushing, ever professional, has the bulk of the script's silly explanations but delivers them as if he really means them, making a meal of his manufacture of vampire-killing devices at home (we get the full Blue Peter treatment on how to convert your used crucifix into a silver bullet) and nodding sagely as he puzzles out the Count's colossal scheme.

Despite its shortcomings, this is a wholly cherishable film, and looks a lot more striking now than it did in 1973. After six films in which Dracula confines himself to petty squabbles with unworthy opponents, it's refreshing that Houghton finally comes up with a monumental, evil plan worthy of a villain of the Count's stature. And the movie gets away from Hammer's usual Berkshire Transylvania to borrow elements from sources as varied as Dennis Wheatley novels (robed Establishment figures taking part in black magic rites with nubile lovelies) and biker movies (Dracula's coven includes a gang of sheepskin-waistcoated motorcycle boys). In fact, the plot is so busy that it's a wonder room was found for the few scenes in which Dracula gets a look in, and Lee goes through the cloak-swirling, fang-baring, eye-rolling emotions without much passion.

Usually, this would mean that Cushing would have to shoulder the acting weight on his own, but here he gets sterling support from familiar British faces like Freddie Jones, William Franklyn and a red-haired Joanna Lumley, who replaces Stephanie Beacham as Van Helsing's plucky granddaughter and shrinks becomingly in a succession of eye-abusing fashions. She is even saved from a fanging when her mammoth floppy collar gets in the way of a vampire's mouth. With its cellarful of chained-up vampire women and eerily empty Avengers-style locations, it feels like no other Hammer film – and is all the better for it.

ENGLISH LIONS CAN ROAR AGAIN

World Cup winning captain David Kirk is a member of Eurosport's commentary team

ever to pull on the famous All Black jersey, is rightly recognised as one of the outstanding players of his era, but it is as the first man to hold the Rugby World Cup aloft in victory that he marked his unique place in the history of rugby. At Eden Park in Auckland in 1987, Kirk captained New Zealand and scored a try in their 29-0 victory over France, as they became the first rugby champions of the world.

The All Blacks have yet to match their success of 1987, losing to the 1991 champions Australia in the semi-finals and to South Africa in the final of the 1995 tournament. Kirk believes this year's winner will come from one of the top four ranked nations – the southern hemisphere's big three, all previous winners, with current Tri-Nations champions New Zealand the favourites and, not surprisingly given their current form, England. 'As England and New Zealand play each other in the pool stage that is obviously a huge game, because the loser could end up facing South Africa in the quarter-final in Paris.

'South Africa start off in the same pool as Scotland and, although they will find Scotland tough, I would expect them to win that game and head their pool. Wales, the hosts, appear to be in a difficult group, with Argentina as their first opponents and Western Samoa in there as well. But I think Wales will be too good for them and will top the

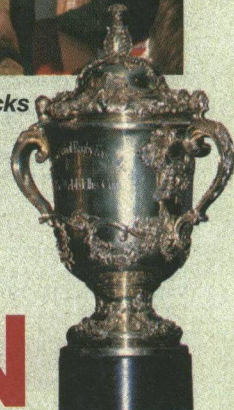

David Kirk holds the William Webb Ellis trophy after leading the All Blacks to victory at Eden Park in the first Rugby World Cup in 1987, while Gareth Edwards celebrates a try during the British Lions tour of South Africa in 1974. Edwards is optimistic about Wales' World Cup chances

RETURN OF THE DRAGON

The eyes of the world will be on Wales this month as it hosts the 1999 Rugby World Cup. Can the home nations prevail against the quite awesome power of the southern hemisphere sides? Two of the game's true greats offer us their personal view group. France have not been going too well this year, but playing at home will inspire them, and I think they will beat Canada and Fiji, who are not as strong as in previous tournaments.

'The Irish-based pool contains a big match in Ireland-Australia. Ireland ran Australia very close in Dublin in 1991 and will want to do the same this time. But even if Ireland finished second in the group, that would put them in line for a home quarter-final against France, and they would like their chances.'

Whoever wins, Kirk is sure that rugby has overcome many of its past problems. 'There is growing professionalism within the game and, in terms of sports TV, rugby has become an important component'.

'It's going to be wonderful'

ITV2 pundit Gareth Edwards speaks to Chris Hatherall

GARETH EDWARDS, a Welsh legend from the glory days of rugby, believes the sport is finally coming home when Wales stages Rugby World Cup 1999. If England is seen as the home of football, then the Valleys of Wales are where rugby is most passionate and most loved. And Edwards, who admits he will have trouble keeping calm as a pundit on the finals for ITV2, cannot wait for it all to kick off. 'Oh, it is going to be wonderful,' he said. 'I couldn't think of a better or more appropriate place to hold the last World Cup of the millennium than in Wales. The people of Wales have a passion for rugby and this is a proud, proud nation. Anybody who watches the World Cup will realise what rugby means to Welshmen.' It is that passion which Edwards believes could help the home nation to a World Cup run. 'Our coach, Graham Henry, has stressed we have to be sensible, sensible, sensible, and he doesn't want anyone to get carried away.' Edwards remembers fondly the days when Wales were almost unbeatable at home. And he believes after years in the wilderness the team is looking like a force again.

World Cup '95 reigning champions South Africa, runners-up New Zealand and third-place France qualified automatically along with the host nation Wales. Pool winners go straight through to the quarter-finals. The runners-up in each group and the best third-placed team compete for the other three places in the quarter-final play-offs. Out of 41 matches, ITV2 will be showing 17 matches live and Eurosport will be showing 25 matches live.

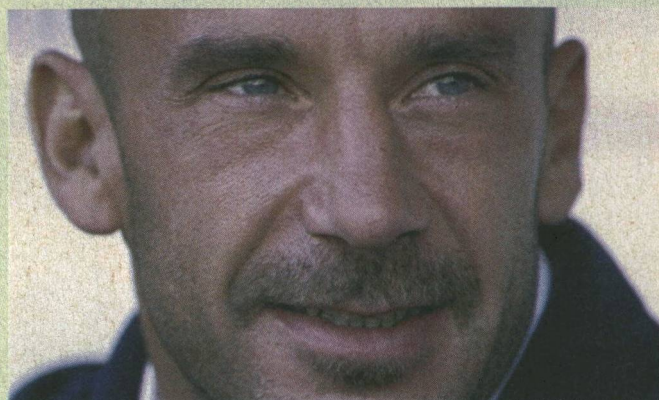

'The current team has shown a lot of promise. A year ago I wouldn't have given us a chance, but since Graham took over the players have become more confident. 'We have the basis of a good side. There is a tenacious and strong pack, a good scrummager in Peter Rogers and one of the best scrum halves in the world in Robert Howley. He will be very, very important and I think he is definitely a match for the boys from the southern hemisphere. As a former scrum half I can't wait to watch him against the likes of Joost Van der Westhuizen of South Africa, New Zealand's Justin Marshall and George Gregan of Australia. Then we have Neil Jenkins, whose kicking is fantastic, and Shane Howarth, who has been brilliant since he came into the side.

'There will be a lot of eyes on Scott Gibbs after his performances for the Lions, too. We need Chris Wyatt to play well. He has the skill to really shine at this level, and of course we already know what the Quinells (Scott and Craig) can do. 'No one is saying Wales are going to win it because New Zealand, Australia and perhaps England are the favourites. But I believe we can reach the quarter-finals and then from there, who knows? It would be wonderful for Wales, and I think for rugby, if we could do it. But the main thing is that, whoever lifts the trophy, this is going to be a terrific World Cup for the game. Honestly, I can't wait for it to start.' Gareth Edwards The Autobiography is published by Headline at £18.99

SPORTS 1 SUNDAY 3RD 3.00PM - LIVE

COOL-HAND LUCA

Gianluca Vialli has his sights set firmly on the title. By Chris Hatherall

GIANLUCA VIALLI has warned Manchester United that his Chelsea team is completely focused on winning the league title this season.

The two Premier League big guns meet at Stamford Bridge this month and Vialli says Chelsea are catching their rivals up all the time. 'Whether people like it or not, Manchester United are the team we all have to follow and learn from,' he said. 'What they achieved last year, winning the treble, was incredible and it may never happen again.'

'Chelsea want to do the same and I believe that this year we can win the Premier League. But to win the Champions' League as well, in our first season, I admit would be very difficult. Our first priority is the league title. This is what I want the most.'

Last year United had the better of matches at the Bridge, drawing 0-0 in the league and winning 2-0 in an FA Cup replay. This time it could be even closer.

SAINTS CAN BEDEVIL CELTIC

St Johnstone could upset Celtic's title hopes, reports David Alexander

IT SEEMS like an easy fixture on paper. Glaswegian giants against Perthshire minnows. But Celtic never make life easy for themselves. The arrival of Kenny Dalglish and John Barnes and some high-scoring wins have raised hopes at Celtic Park. But an early defeat against Dundee United proves they are not invincible. And midfielder Craig Burley thinks St Johnstone will not be an easy game. 'You cannot take your foot off the gas, because if you start slipping points, Rangers put more pressure on you,' he said. 'We lost at Dundee United early on and almost slipped up at Dundee. So we know what we have to do against St Johnstone.'

With Henrik Larsson scoring freely, Mark Viduka hitting the net and Eyal Berkovic (pictured) pulling the strings, things look good. But St Johnstone, who finished third last season, won three of the games between the sides last campaign. Sandy Clark has developed a fine team with Portuguese international winger Miguel Simao a particular threat.

THE SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME?

The sci-fi noir thriller Gattaca, which makes its bow on Sky Premier this week, announces the arrival of an impressive stylist in writer and first-time feature director Andrew Niccol, who honed his startling visual sense while making TV commercials. (He also consolidated his talent for turning out subtly nightmarish movies with his follow-up project, the screenplay of The Truman Show.) Set in the near future, the film gamely grapples with the prickly subjects of genetic engineering and discrimination. The world presented in the film is a stark and repressive one ruled by the genetically elite; those who have had a disadvantaged birth, meanwhile, are consigned to the human scrap heap. Ethan Hawke is one such unfortunate, but he refuses to let his 'In-Valid' status get in the way of his ambition to be an astronaut. After acquiring the superior identity of a man who has been crippled in an accident (the excellent Jude Law), he lands a job at the corporation of the title and is selected for a place on a year-long mission to one of Saturn's moons. When a director who opposed the mission is murdered, however, Hawke becomes the main suspect after the police happen upon one of his eyelashes at the crime scene. Uma Thurman is glamorously enigmatic as the film's love interest, Irene. Some ideas, and even individual shots, may seem familiar: the movie is reminiscent of Orson Welles's indelibly unsettling The Trial in its atmospheric use of strange existing architecture for exteriors, while it owes an obvious debt to George Orwell's 1984 and, especially, to Terry Gilliam's brilliant Orwellian film fantasy Brazil. But despite these references to previous sources, Gattaca prevails as a satisfying experience in its own right, thanks to its provocative themes, its cryptic characterisations and, above all, its visual virtuosity. The impressively austere, Oscar-nominated art design provides a striking backdrop, and the cinematography is as crisp and clean as the sets, though, like the plot, it is prone to pleasing eccentricities – at one point the camera even ends up in a police evidence bag, along with the bloodied, dented computer keyboard that had been used to bludgeon the mission director to death. Along with the existential nightmare Cube and the incredibly imagined Dark City, starring Keifer Sutherland, Gattaca is at the vanguard of a new wave of intelligently conceived adult science-fiction films that dazzle the eye while providing ample food for thought.

Sky Premier Saturday 2nd 8.00pm

VIALLI'S GREAT PRETENDERS

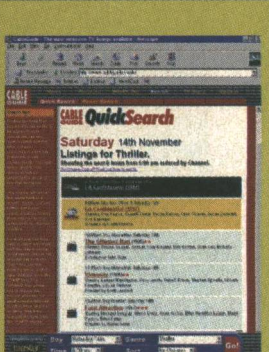

The transition from mid-table also-rans to title contenders has been a thrilling experience for the followers of Chelsea (whose Gustavo Poyet is pictured). From Ruud Gullit's 'sexy football' era, to Gianluca Vialli's forceful passing side, the ups have outweighed the downs. Yet Vialli's expansive squad is now burdened with expectation, because if they are to assert themselves as the new dominant force in English football, then this must be the season in which they validate their credentials. And what better chance to demonstrate their commitment to climb to the summit of the league than with Sunday's home clash with title holders Manchester United? The visitors have emerged as the benchmark of soccer quality that few teams have measured up to, and as they arrive at Stamford Bridge to join battle with the pretenders, armchair pundits across the nation will be anxious to see how Chelsea rate alongside United.

BREAKING THE WAVES

Only ten per cent of those who set out to swim the English Channel succeed, indeed four people have actually died as a result of their efforts. For former professional football player and successful triathlete John Maclean, who is profiled this week in National Geographic Channel's Against Wind and Tide, the challenge was obvious. But, what makes his bid for a place in the annals of history stand out is the fact that Maclean is disabled. Following an accident that left him without the use of his legs, the gutsy Australian remained unbowed and was adamant he would maintain his active lifestyle. He eventually focused his mind on becoming the first disabled person to swim the Channel. The prospect of spending up to 16 hours in the icy shipping lanes of one of the busiest stretches of water on Earth is not the most appealing prospect, and after being forcibly pulled from the water as a force seven gale threatened on his first attempt, it becomes clear that John Maclean is an extraordinary and determined character.

LIVE RUGBY WORLD CUP: FRANCE V CANADA EUROSPORT 12.45PM

Although they can boast a respectable record in the World Cup, France have lost their form and their sparkle since winning the Five Nations two seasons ago, despite the star quality of players such as Thomas Castaignède (pictured, left) and the occasional thrilling three-quarter move. In today's clash at Béziers, the French face Canada. The men from North America are no pushovers, with their own fly half star, Gareth Rees (pictured, right), keeping the points ticking over with his kicking skills.

Hungry for Some Real Excitement?

A dramatic scene viewed from inside the mouth of a large shark. The shark's dark, fleshy interior and rows of sharp, white teeth frame the central image. In the center, a diver in a blue wetsuit and scuba gear is perched on a metal railing, looking out towards the bright blue water. The diver's shadow is cast on the metal. In the lower-left corner, a small patch of coral and some striped fish are visible. The overall atmosphere is one of intense, predatory excitement.

SHARK WEEK

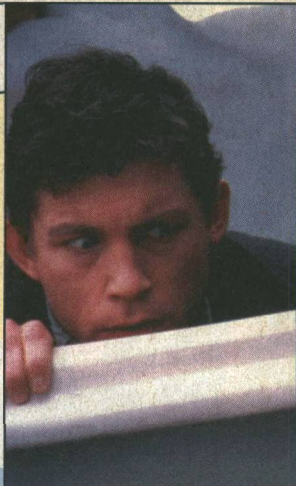

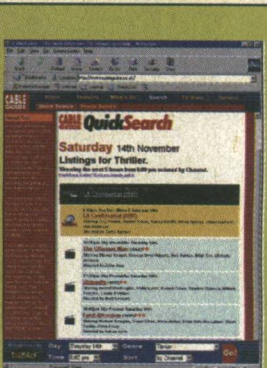

Ravenous. Always searching. Never stopping.
Relentless in their pursuit of prey.

The insatiable world of sharks returns to hold you in its grip with incredible new premieres. The shark infestation starts on Sunday 3rd October with a whole day of shark programming and then every day throughout the week with premieres including Sharks of the Deep Blue and Sharks in a Desert Sea. Find out how some species are teaching themselves to swim in fresh water and why one expert sets out to prove that, with proper technique, a swimmer can survive a bull shark encounter.

LIVE FA PREMIER LEAGUE: SOUTHAMPTON V DERBY COUNTY SKY SPORTS 1 7.00PM
	Down at The Dell these days, Dave Jones has his boys in good nick and they've put some points on the board early rather than last year's season-long struggle. Tonight, Southampton take on a Derby team still re-grouping from the loss of Paulo Wanchope in the off-season. Boss Jim Smith is canny enough to get the best from men like Deon Burton (pictured, right) and the match should be tight, with a flash of brilliance from Saints' Moroccan star Hassan Kachloul (pictured, left), possibly making the difference.

LIVE SCOTLAND V BOSNIA HERZEGOVINA SKY SPORTS 1 7.00PM

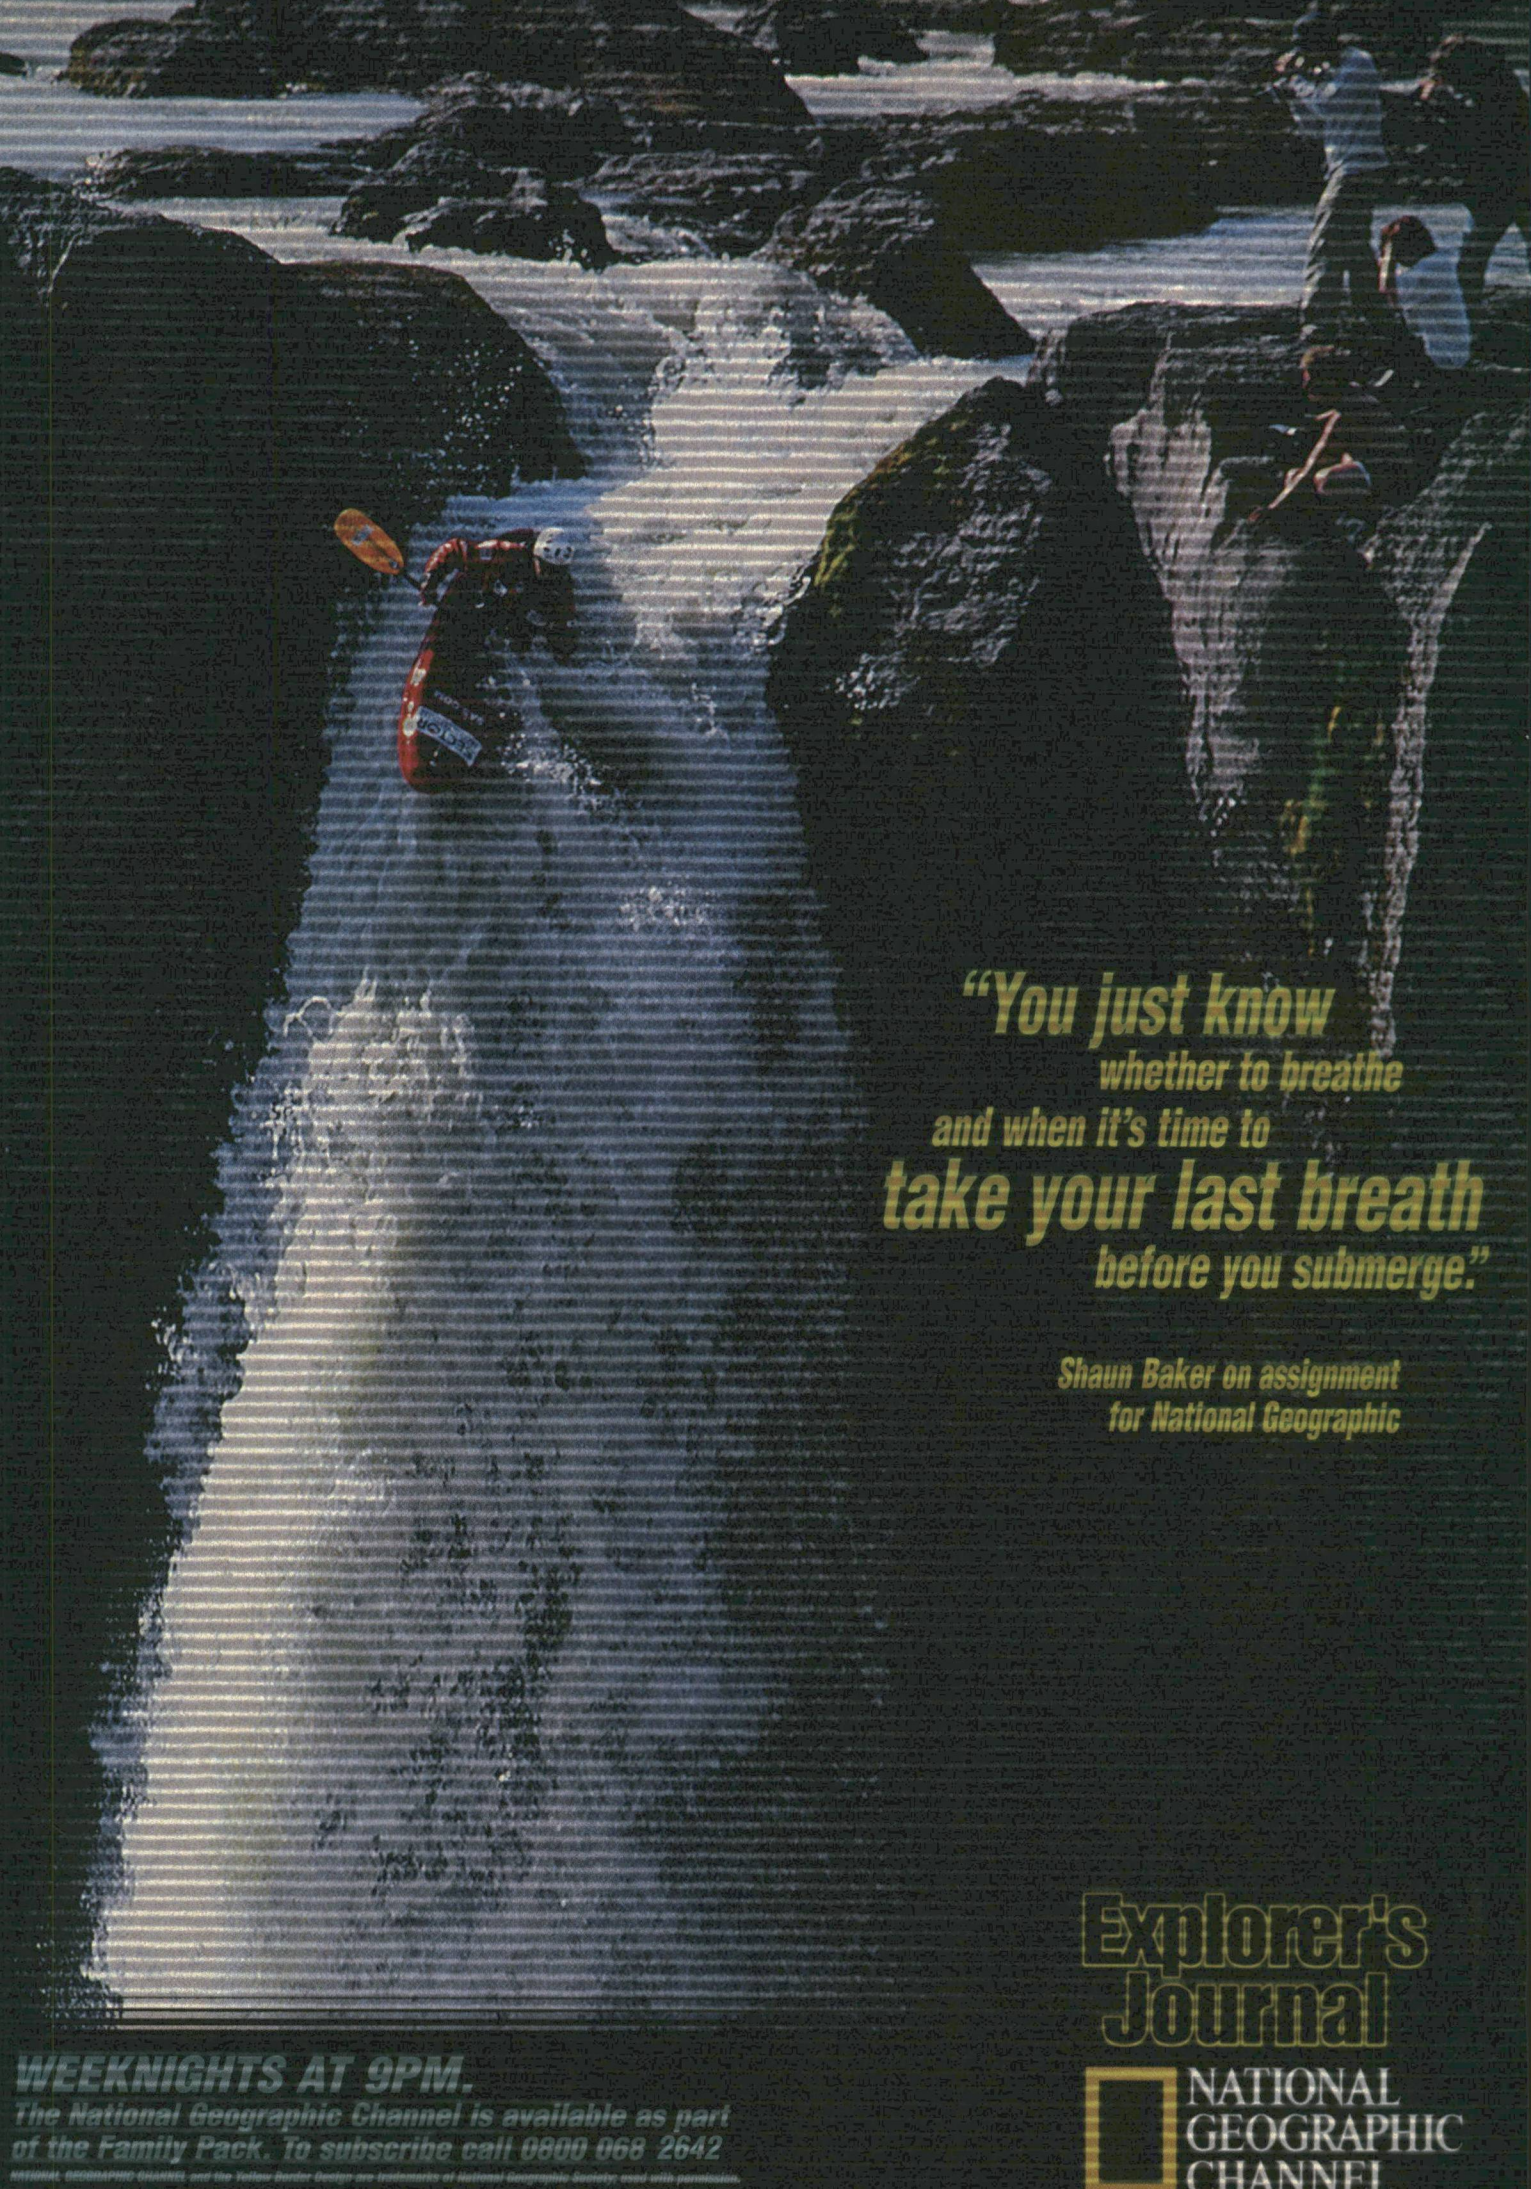

After their 2-1 victory over Bosnia Herzegovina in Sarajevo last month, Scotland go into this Euro 2000 qualifier at Ibrox with a psychological advantage over their Eastern European opponents. That performance was one of Scotland's best in recent years, and the national coach Craig Brown will have been especially encouraged by the performances of star players such as John Collins (pictured, left) and team captain Colin Hendry (pictured, right). But the Scots must not be complacent.

BLIND DATA

Here's an original idea that puts a novel spin on the tried-and-tested formula of the dating show. The scene for Sky One's The Villa is a luxurious Spanish villa, and the ingredients are eight unattached young people, four boys and four girls (this week's edition includes Gemma Ttokkallos, pictured) on the look out for love. The thing that distinguishes this from a lorry, lorry other dating games is that, at the beginning of their week of indulgence, the guests are invited to be profiled by the Villa computer, to see whether old-fashioned human psychology can be predicted by state-of-the-art dating hardware. But will the boffinesque mating machine come up with the right answers?

Sky One, starts Sunday 10th 9.00pm

CAN THE TARTAN ARMY OVERTHROW LITHUANIA?

As Scotland prepare to meet Lithuania on home soil this weekend, the team find themselves battling to secure a play-off berth. Group 9 leaders the Czech Republic are streets ahead, if not in terms of quality, then certainly in terms of points, and their clinical forward line has demonstrated to the rest of the group the value of putting away one's chances. Tom Boyd (pictured) has been a stalwart of the Scots' rearguard and will be determined to snuff out any threat the Lithuanians can muster. Much could also depend on if, and how, Craig Brown's Evertonian quartet of Hutchison, Collins, Gemmill and Weir perform. But one thing you can say with much more certainty is that the crowd at Hampden Park will give everything for the team and hopefully create an atmosphere that will overwhelm the visitors.

ACTION EPIC IS GIVEN A FAT CHANCE

While he is a versatile performer who has appeared in over 60 movies (ranging from highly charged dramas and light romances, to steamy erotic fantasies and broad comedy), charismatic Hong Kong actor Chow Yun-Fat's cult status is built entirely around his services to the action genre – and especially the quintet of cartridge concertos he made with John Woo from 1986 to 1992. It was Woo who was the first to appreciate Chow's winning combination of cocky confidence, identifiable vulnerability and cold ruthlessness. Chow demonstrated an intuitive understanding of the director's old-fashioned notions of heroism and was the perfect choice to convey the grand themes of honour, loyalty and betrayal in the director's seminal studies in slow-mo mayhem, A Better Tomorrow 1 and 2, The Killer and Hard-Boiled. Now Chow has followed on the heels of Woo and made the move to Hollywood. Woo's Stateside debut, Hard Target, was a compromised Jean-Claude Van Damme vehicle that was singularly lacking in the outrageous inventiveness that distinguished his Hong Kong films. However, in Chow's first Tinseltown effort, this week's Sky Box Office premiere of The Replacement Killers, on which Woo acted as executive producer, East meets West with much more satisfying results. Meticulous assassin John Lee (Chow) has been forced into accepting three hits for crimelord Mr Wei, who has threatened to harm Lee's mother and sister should he do otherwise. Lee carries out two of the jobs, in which crooks were the targets, but can't force himself to pull off the third – the seven-year-old boy of Stan 'Zeedo' Sedkov (Michael Rooker), the cop who shot Wei's grown-up, criminal son in the line of duty. Knowing that he and his family will be the subject of Wei's wrath, Lee attempts to purchase passports from ace forger Meg (Mira Sorvino). But she soon finds herself caught up in Lee's race to spirit his mother and sister to safety, ensure that Zeedo's son is not killed and dispatch Wei and his henchmen. Chow, whose iconic status is celebrated in heroic close-ups, acquits himself with honours in his first English-language role.

LIVE FORD INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL: ENGLAND V BELGIUM SKY SPORTS 2 2.00PM

By now England's chances of even making the play-offs for the Euro 2000 finals may be over, but Kevin Keegan's (pictured, left) bandwagon will still be rolling. His team takes on the co-hosts for the finals, Belgium (whose Emile Mpenza is pictured, right), and another Wembley win won't be easy. It might be a friendly, yet the home crowd needs plenty of encouragement to believe in the team. Expect Alan Shearer to still be Keegan's number one guy in attack.

LOVE STARS BY MARGIE THILLART

Aries

21 March-20 April ★★★
 THERE'LL be no lack of chemistry between you and the object of your desire, but that doesn't mean your love life will be all plain sailing. However, even when tempers flare you'll relish the kiss-and-make-up scenes that follow.

Libra

24 September-23 October ★★★
 THIS is one of your happiest months all year, so use the favourable cosmic energy to act as a catapult for positive change in your life. If you've been stuck in a financial or emotional rut, now is the perfect time to take action.

Taurus

21 April-21 May ★★
 SOMEONE who is needy or troubled may rely heavily on you for emotional or financial support. And while yours is usually a long-suffering sign, your patience will probably be run fairly thin before the month is through.

Scorpio

24 October-22 November ★★
 YOUR sign is often hard to please, but in this laid-back month you'll be more inclined to tolerate those little faults in others. And while this doesn't exactly mean you'll be a push-over, it does imply a more healthy attitude to life.

Gemini

22 May-21 June ★★
 WITH your tendency to look at life through rose-coloured glasses, you'll put a positive spin on even the most trying situations this month. Unfortunately, this may leave you vulnerable to subtle manipulation by other people.

Sagittarius

23 November-22 December ★★
 A RELATIONSHIP will undergo subtle change when a loved one pays you more attention or reveals their true feelings. It's a romantic month for your sign and the spark that has been missing in your love live seems likely to return.

Cancer

22 June-23 July ★★
 YOU could be inclined to set double standards, demanding exemplary behaviour from others while acting really rather badly yourself. Try to be more objective and listen carefully to what your friends and loved ones have to say.

Capricorn

23 December-20 January ★★
 TO ACHIEVE a heartfelt aim you may have to take drastic measures this month. In romantic terms, this may mean it's time to sever a close relationship. In a more general sense, a return to your roots could well be in order.

Leo

24 July-23 August ★★
 RATHER than relying on others for emotional fulfilment, bear in mind that true happiness comes from within. Yours is a very passionate sign, but you often find it difficult to channel your energy in the right direction.

Aquarius

21 January-19 February ★
 DYNAMIC Mars motivates you to act on an unusual idea or follow the dictates of your heart. Some of the decisions you make may prove unpopular with family, but no-one will doubt your good intentions.

Virgo

24 August-23 September ★★★
 VENUS emphasises your charm and adds plenty of sparkle to your love life. The most likely scenario this month is that you'll find yourself in the right place at the right time, ready to build relationships and seize opportunities.

Pisces

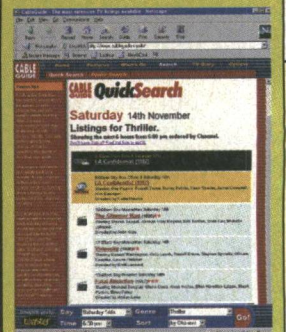

20 February-20 March ★★
 THE MAIN message for your sign is to be decisive. Your ideas and intentions may seem inappropriate to some, but you'll only be happy if you're true to yourself. You're at a crossroads and now's a perfect time to change direction.

The film spans several decades, from the Twenties through to the Second World War, and tracks the rivalry between the two ranching families. 	LIVE RUGBY WORLD CUP: ENGLAND V TONGA EUROSPORT 12.30PM This fixture should be a thrilling encounter, with the calm and steady England team trying to contain the lively Tongans. No South Pacific team in modern rugby relies on penalty kicks and grinding scrummaging. The Tongans are no exception and, although, they don't boast a bevy of world class players, they are sure to cause the English a few problems with their fluent running game. If England are to match them, then wing Dan Luger (pictured) may be the man to watch. SWEET LITTLE SIXTEEN

Who'd be a teenager, eh? Misunderstood, lovelorn and browbeaten – these are just some of the stereotypical problems commonly associated with the nation's adolescent population. Sky One's ground-breaking new series 16 achieves an uncompromising and revealing insight into what it is really like to be a teenager in Nineties Britain. Each week, a radically different life story will play itself out in front of the cameras as 18 very different 16-year-olds face up to crucial events in their lives. Working across the broad spectrum of British society, the series records the hopes and fears of a girl, who like her sister before her, is due to give birth at the tender age of 16; and Leanne Parsons (pictured) from Bristol, who like so many others, has set her heart on a career in modelling. In other slice-of-life instalments, viewers are introduced to a girl whose mother is a practising witch and who has been brought up with a pagan lifestyle, and an ebullient youngster determined to one day be famous. This is a series that is less interested with the future aspirations than with the immediate lives of the youngsters concerned and provides a candid, and at times humorous, look at teenage angst.

Sky One, starts Tuesday 19th 9.30pm

SPHERE IS THE KEY

While Saturday's premier of the underwater alien encounter thriller Sphere marks director Barry Levinson's second adaptation of a Michael Crichton novel (his first being the 1994 conversation piece Disclosure), it marks his first foray into sci-fi. The special effects are impressive, but they are by no means the main event, because, as in his non-genre works, Levinson's chief interest is conjuring up dramatic tension between his protagonists. A team of government scientists, including Levinson regular Dustin Hoffman, Sharon Stone and Samuel L Jackson, are summoned to the middle of the Pacific to investigate the discovery of a mysterious craft on the ocean floor.

GRIT STANDS IN FOR GLAMOUR AT THE RIVERSIDE

What this weekend's Premier League meeting between Middlesbrough and fellow battlers West Ham at the Riverside Stadium lacks in glamour it will more than make up for in gritty football.

Middlesbrough boss Bryan Robson has always wielded financial muscle while dealing on the transfer market. However, his long career in football has made him a canny customer, as his shrewd summer signings demonstrate (Paul Ince, Christian Ziege and Keith O'Neill all for under £6million), which helps keep the Boro board very happy indeed. Meanwhile, the visitors' boss, Harry Redknapp, has elected to nurture his stalwart players, such as Frank Lampard, while at the same time carefully shopping around for some of football's more colourful characters (including Paulo Di Canio, pictured).

With the darting scrum half skills of Augustin Pichot (pictured) to lead them, the Argentinians have both the power and the guile to succeed. FOOD THIS MONTH'S MOUTH-WATERING HIGHLIGHTS

Home is where the art is

In keeping with the ever popular genre of DIY/ makeover programmes, Carlton Food Network brings you a new 12-part lifestyle series dedicated to affordable and novel ways to style your home and ideas for entertaining. Alison Cork will be showing you how to make everything from ice ball lanterns to lavish moss garden urns – should the fancy take you! There's also a website about the series – www.carlton.com/homeinthecountry – giving you the chance to buy related goods and a book. We've picked a tasty vegetable recipe from the show that'd be ideal as a starter or a nibble; it's made with tempura batter so light you will hardly be able to see it. Home in the Country, Wednesdays, 12.30pm

Vegetable and Sage Fritters

Ingredients:

450g (1lb) assorted vegetables – broccoli, cauliflower and plum tomatoes
1 large egg
225ml (8fl oz) ice cold water
110g (4oz) plain flour
a pinch of bicarbonate of soda
1 tsp ground ginger
enough vegetable oil to half fill a wok a bunch of sage leaves
flour for dusting

Method:

1 Break up the broccoli and cauliflower into florets, blanch in boiling water for 2-3 min and refresh in ice cold water.
2 De-seed the tomatoes and cut into long strips.
3 To make the batter: break the egg into a bowl and whisk in the cold water. Add the flour, bicarbonate of soda and ginger and beat very lightly for a few seconds (ignore any lumps).
4 Pre-heat the wok. Test if the oil is hot enough by dropping in a cube of bread; it should brown in 30 seconds.

PHOTOS: CARLTON FOOD NETWORK

5 Dip the vegetables in the batter and fry until crisp – about 3-5 min. Dip the tomatoes in the batter and deep fry for 2-3 min. Dip the sage leaves in the batter and deep fry for 30 seconds.

6 Drain on some kitchen paper. Serve while still hot with a salsa, or flavour some shop-bought mayonnaise with chopped coriander and lime juice.

A SCOTTISH FEAST

Did you know that vast amounts of seafood are transported live to some of the top kitchens of Europe? That the Spanish get their so-called Mediterranean gambas and calamares from the icy depths of the Minch, and three star chefs in Paris buy their langoustine live from the Scottish islands? To find out more tune into Derek Cooper's new series, Scotland's Larder, which explores the produce, cultural history and present-day cookery of Scotland. CFN, Tuesdays, 2.00pm

Buffy (Sarah Michelle Gellar) has a secret – Angel (David Boreanaz) is back and he's not popular

Must-see Buffy!

A MONTH filled with old, familiar – but not always friendly – faces for Buffy the Vampire Slayer is on the way.

Buffy is trying to get her life back together, after running away to Los Angeles at the end of the second series, then returning to Sunnydale. She reluctantly teams up with Faith the Slayer, who replaced Kendra, but is still keeping her biggest secret hidden – Angel is back from Hell. None of her friends will be pleased to see him: he killed Giles's love, Jenny Calendar, and threatened the others.

The last person that Buffy wants to see now is Spike (James Marsters), last seen heading out of Sunnydale after his temporary alliance with the Slayer came to an end. Spike's not been himself since his vampire lover, Drusilla, gave him the push – and he wants magical help to get her back.

No sooner has Buffy dealt with him than Cordelia manages to get everyone into more trouble.

Get ready to see a very different side of Willow (Alyson Hannigan) and a jaded, cynical Buffy in a must-see episode on Friday 8th.

The third return is possibly the most frightening, since it involves someone who we've always thought of as on the side of good. In 'Amends' (Friday 14th), Angel is given the 'Christmas Carol' treatment, as ghosts of his old victims come to haunt him ...

Nobody ever said living in Sunnydale was meant to be easy! Sky One, Thursdays, Fridays, 8.00pm

Future Watch

If you enjoyed Brimstone on Sky One, chances are you'd like G vs E, a syndicated show which has just premiered with great success in America. Clayton Rohmer and Richard Brooks play two cops working for the big G (God), defending the world – and more specifically, Hollywood – from the forces of E (Evil), which appears in the shape of Morlocks, demons out to conquer and destroy. Brooks 'out-Shafts Shaft' according to his partner, and the show walks the fine line between horror and comedy without going overboard on either ...

PLANET OF THE APES

One of the most unforgettable images from Sixties cinema is that of Charlton Heston's horrified realisation, on seeing the ruins of the Statue of Liberty, that the Planet of the Apes on which he has found himself is in fact the Earth of the future! After four sequels to the 1968 classic, Twentieth Century Fox called a halt to the ape film series, but the concept refused to lie down. In 1974 CBS brought to the small screen the adventures of time-lost astronauts Pete Burke and Alan Virdon (James Naughton and Ron Harper, pictured below with Galen the chimp, played by the late Roddy McDowall – the veteran of four of the original five films).

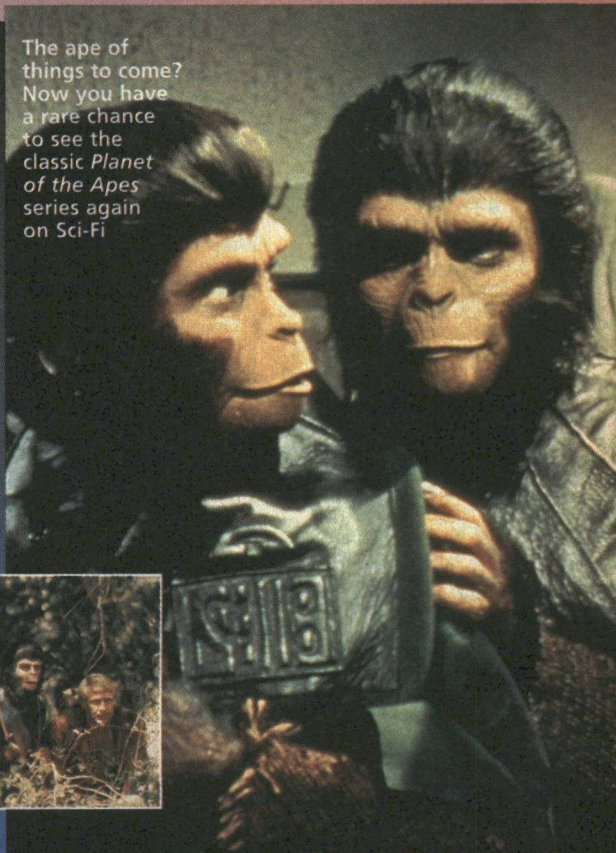

One major change was made for the TV version: in the first two films (set far in the future), mankind had forgotten how to talk. But TV shows need guest stars, and guest stars have to be heard – so the TV show was set a little earlier in Earth's history before men became dumb.

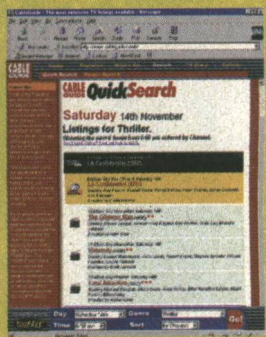

The astronauts were befriended by Galen, and hunted by gorilla General Urko (Star Trek's Mark Lenard).

Only 14 episodes were made, but they added another dimension to the ongoing ape saga and are still fun to watch today.

Sci-Fi from Monday 11th, 9.00pm

The ape of things to come? Now you have a rare chance to see the classic Planet of the Apes series again on Sci-Fi

LIVE WTA, MOSCOW EUROSPORT 10.45AM  It's quarter-finals time in the WTA's Kremlin Cup, staged indoors in Moscow's Olympic Stadium. The strength of American tennis these days is such that it will be a strange tournament if the likes of the Williams sisters or Lindsay Davenport are still not involved at this stage. Fifth-seeded French woman Mary Pierce (pictured, left) stormed to victory last year, while Jana Novotna (pictured, right) could mount a strong challenge this time around.

THE FINAL SHOWDOWN

The big names of the Motorcycle World Championships circuit gear up for the 'Grand Prix Marlboro de Argentina', the final race of the 500cc motorcycling season. Spanish speed merchant Alex Criville (pictured) has really come to the fore this season and has left the rest of the field with the all-too-familiar view of his Repsol Honda rear wheel. After wins in France, Italy, Germany and two in front of his adoring home crowd in Spain, the steely racer seems to have dragged the sport out of the formidable shadow of five-times world champion Mick Doohan. With Doohan out of contention this year, following his horror crash at Jerez de la Frontera in the Spanish Grand Prix, his rivals have been only too glad to grab the limelight and make their move for the top prize. Add to this the fact that this is the first season since 1993, when American Kevin Schwantz claimed the title, that any other rider has broken the Doohan championship monopoly, and you begin to understand what is at stake for the riders in the final shake up. Kenny Roberts Jr and Max Biaggi will be challenging each other at the 4259-metres-long Autodromo de la Ciudad de Buenos Aires in a meeting that promises to be a scintillating battle of wits and a fitting finale to a highly charged and dramatic season.

GALLAGHER BROTHERS DESERTED AT OASIS

Egos and Icons charts the rocketing rise to fame of Oasis, a bunch of Mancunian scallies who, in the wake of the media-hyped 'Madchester' scene, helped inject plenty of interest into the country's music business. The band's lager lad posturing has grown tiresome, but it should not be forgotten that they have managed to balance their boisterous, headline-grabbing high jinks with consistently good music. After the phenomenal success of their second album (What's the Story) Morning Glory? Noel was described as the greatest songwriter of his generation. Since then the band have evolved after several departures, leaving the Gallaghers as the only original members. But with a new album in the pipeline and all this archive footage, who cares? So, if for some reason the Oasis phenomenon has passed you by, tune in for this rock 'n' roller coaster ride through the band's evolution.

TRAGIC VOYAGE

For his epic, Oscar-laden Titanic, which sets sail across Sky Premier screens this week, director James Cameron charts with obsessive attention to authentic detail the ill-fated maiden voyage of the eponymous vessel. The luxury liner was famously considered unsinkable, but just before midnight on 14 April 1912 it struck an iceberg and sent about 1500 people to their watery graves in the Atlantic. The movie came in for criticism for the way in which it focused on a fictional 'upstairs, downstairs' romance between the depressed Kate Winslet, who has been forced into an engagement with an arrogant, rich snob (played with pantomime gusto by Billy Zane), and Leonardo DiCaprio's hard-up but happy artist. The casting of the stars may have been a cynical attempt to lure in the teen audience, but the foregrounding of the affair is a skilful narrative device that humanises the disaster by providing us with characters we can identify with and care about.

AND GOD CREATED RICKY MARTIN ...

Latin sensation Ricky Martin seems to have finally achieved global domination – sealed by his smash summer hit Livin' La Vida Loca. To mark his talent, MTV is devoting a whole day to the chico Latino, featuring Martin's top videos, live performances and interviews. To give you a taste of what's to come, here are some facts from our Ricky Martin dossier. He was born and raised in Puerto Rico in 1971. As a nipper he sang in a choir and acted in TV commercials. Aged 12, he became a member of Menudo, a popular Latin group who achieved global success. Martin also hit the screen and stage starring in the American TV soap General Hospital and the Broadway version of Les Miserables ... To find out more, watch MTV's Ricky Martin Day, Thursday 28th.

KINDER SURPRISE!

BRITNEY SPEARS comes under the MTV microscope this month in an MTV premiere, Access All Areas – Britney Spears. The programme shadows two Spears fans who go backstage at one of her concerts and meet the 17-year-old pop icon. Believe it or not, Spears, the teen phenomenon, began her ascent to fame as a mere infant – she was a minuscule eight years old when she first auditioned for Disney Channel's Mickey Mouse Club. As a tribute to her, we've compiled our own trio of star toddlers who have traversed the sticky path of adolescence and still maintained fame. Monday 25th, 1.30pm

● Alanis Morissette began her public life on kids' TV in a show called You Can't Do That on Television. Then, using the money she earned, she recorded a single, Fate Stay with Me, at the age of

10. She also invested her money in a shocking perm that stayed with her until sense prevailed and she metamorphosed into angry woman with tendrilous locks.

● Aled Jones's soprano career began at the tender age of nine. Bless! Who could forget the haunting Walking in the Air song? Today, well, things have dropped an octave or two in the vocal department, but he's still going strong. In his latest single, Tell Me Boy, he's actually teaming up with his former self in a spooky single that'll feature both his 'adult' and 'junior' voice!

● Perhaps the most successful child-to-adult singer of all time is Michael Jackson. In 1970, as part of The Jackson 5, he achieved national success in the States on the Motown label when he was little more than a decade old, and the rest, as they say, is HiStory.

Here's our pick of 20 of the hottest tracks on The Box this month. To make your request, dial the number on screen, then key in the code for the video of your choice

The Larry Sanders Show

DEAL IN CREDIT CARDS.

NO FEE. NO FRILLS. JUST A GREAT NEW CREDIT CARD DEAL.

LOW COST AND GREAT VALUE!

Unlike most cards, Lombard Direct MasterCard has been designed to provide you with just one, low APR, whatever you use it for. With Lombard Direct MasterCard there is no fee and, for all balance transfers, purchases and cash advances, the APR will be just 5.9% for the first six months and 15.9% APR thereafter – still more competitive than the standard APRs offered by many of the main card providers. What's more, in addition to the usual benefits you'd expect from a MasterCard, you can:

- Withdraw up to £100 per day and you won't be charged a cash handling fee.
- Enjoy up to 100 days' insurance cover on most purchases over £50¹.
- Take advantage of up to 56 days' interest-free credit on purchases.
- Choose when you want to receive your statement each month.
- Choose between two different card designs.

CHECK HOW COMPETITIVE LOMBARD DIRECT MASTERCARD IS!

Take a look at the table below to see how much you could save by transferring to Lombard Direct MasterCard from the standard rate on these credit cards.

LENDER	ANNUAL FEE	SAME, LOW, INTRODUCTORY APR FOR ALL BALANCE TRANSFERS, PURCHASES & CASH ADVANCES	INTRODUCTORY APR%	STANDARD APR%	STANDARD APR% FOR CASH ADVANCES	HOW MUCH YOU WOULD SAVE IN THE FIRST YEAR BY TRANSFERRING A BALANCE OF £2,000 TO LOMBARD DIRECT MASTERCARD

Barclaycard VISA/MasterCard	£10	NO	N/A	19.9%	21.8%	£150.16
Goldfish VISA/MasterCard	NIL	NO	N/A	18.9%	20.7%	£143.28

Marks & Spencer Store card	NIL	N/A	N/A	25.1%	N/A	£246.96

The comparisons exclude any spending related or other benefits. Savings assume that you are not currently on an introductory rate. The comparisons also assume that the balance remains constant over 12 months and that the minimum payment is made each month. The standard APRs are variable. All figures are for illustration purposes only. Competitive data is correct as at 6 September 1999. Source Moneyfacts Online Datascreen.

Richard Krajicek (pictured, left) had won a Grand Slam and 13 other titles when he came to the Eurocard Open in Stuttgart last year. When he beat Russian Yevgeny Kafelnikov (pictured, right) in the final it was his first Super 9 title after dozens of attempts. It's a title which has a host of prestigious players on its past winners list, including Stefan Edberg and Boris Becker who both won twice. No one has defended the title successfully, though, so Krajicek has that to aspire to.

The young person's guide to what's on this month

Fangtastic!

New to Nickelodeon this month, just in time for Halloween, is Mona the Vampire (weekdays from Monday 18th, 10.00am). Never mind George, the school bully, and the annoying Angela, who do their best to put Mona off the trail, this vampire will get her teeth into anything. Along with Fang the cat and her best friends Charlie and Lilly, Mona investigates all the weird goings-on in her town – and you can guarantee that she will find the answers!

Spellbound

DDOUBLE, double, toil and trouble, fire burn and cauldron bubble ... Disney Channel's at it again! Not only will there be a magic mixture of entertainment over Halloween, but every cable viewer will be able to watch the spooky goings-on with a 'Free Pass', as the channel is unencrypted from 29-31 October for the jam-packed Spooks and Spells Weekend.

Among the enchanting family movies showing over this weekend, Bette Midler, Sarah Jessica Parker and Kathy Najimy star in Hocus Pocus, as a trio of witches whose restless spirits are accidentally conjured up on Halloween night, to once again weave their malevolent magic and spells (Saturday 30th, 7.00pm).

You'll also get a second chance to catch Robin Williams wreaking havoc with the green and rubbery stuff in Flubber on Sunday 31st, 7.00pm (also shown on Saturday 9th), and stay tuned to see the sparky B*witched quartet, who will be lending voice to the spellbinding occasion in the Disney Channel studio.

To celebrate this fantastic weekend of family viewing, Disney Channel is giving away 10 Halloween party packs stuffed full of all the goodies you'll need to make this Halloween the most thrilling ever!

For a chance to win one of these fabulous party packs, just correctly answer this question: Which one of these objects famously belongs to a witch?

a) Bucket b) Broomstick c) Bath mat

Send your answer on a postcard, with your name and address, to Cable Guide, Spooks & Spells competition, PO BOX 2176, London W1A 5TW. Closes 18 October 1999. The first ten correct entries drawn at random will win. Full rules are on page 216

Going BUMP in the night ...

This October half-term Fox Kids are bombarding you with everything spooky! Eerie Indiana and Casper are just two of the Halloween highlights coming your way – not forgetting Roy and Lisa, who will be on the road and more than willing to deliver some suitably creepy surprises. If this doesn't totally spook you, prepare yourself for the Ghoulish Goosebumps Weekend from 30-31st, when you can enjoy back-to-back episodes of Goosebumps (pictured right). All your favourite Fox Kids programmes will also be showing throughout the half-term break, including the fantastic new action adventure series Mystic Knights of Tir Na Nog, and Power Rangers in Space. See listings for details.

LIVE FORD GOLF USA: TOUR CHAMPIONSHIP SKY SPORTS 2 8.00PM

The US PGA Tour circuit seems to brim with talent, record-breaking and stunning target golf in a way that its European counterpart never does. Even at this late stage of the 1998 season, the Tour Championship witnessed a course record, something highly unlikely in the less clement weather of Europe in October. A 63 by Vijay Singh was the best ever at the Champions Golf Club in Houston, Texas, and there then followed a thrilling play-off in which the Fijian lost to Hal Sutton (pictured).

This surreal tale of Sapphic bloodsuckers is one of Spanish maverick Jess Franco's most accomplished works. Even his trademark zoom-happy camerawork seems right for the dreamlike 'plot'. The experimental, sitar score is the perfect aural accompaniment, too.

LIVE EURO TOUR GOLF: VOLVO MASTERS SKY SPORTS 1 12NOON
	Day two of the final tournament in the European Order of Merit and, as usual, it'll be everyone against Colin Montgomerie (pictured, left). If the big Scot hasn't secured the seasonal honour by now, we could get the same kind of thrilling finish as 1998 when Northern Ireland's Darren Clarke (pictured, right) had to win to force Monty off his annual top spot. Clarke did win the tournament, but the Scot raised his game in the final round for a top ten finish to maintain the Order of Merit title.

"The Holy Family"

Featuring the beloved Hummel children

For generations, their sweet, angelic faces have been loved by millions the world over. Now, for the very first time, the children from Berta Hummel's tender paintings have inspired a beautiful Nativity collection that perfectly heralds the new Millennium.

These three exquisite sculptures are lovingly modelled with the delicate, childlike features that are so uniquely Hummel. Delight in "Mary", tenderly watching over her newborn son; "Joseph", standing protectively nearby with his staff in hand; and "Jesus" himself, his tiny face aglow with heavenly radiance. Never before has the Christmas story been told with such warmth and such charm.

Each sculpture is designed and sculpted by the artisans of Goebel, who for sixty years have been entrusted to interpret Berta Hummel's art. Each is hand-crafted in fine porcelain, and hand-painted to the meticulous standards for which they are internationally renowned.

On display in your home, The Holy Family will add a new perspective to your family's Millennium celebrations, as we rapidly approach the 2,000th anniversary of the birth of Our Lord.

You are invited to reserve your "The Holy Family" figurines today, at the issue price of £79.95 per set of three. You need send no money with your order. Simply complete the Priority Reservation Form and post it today.

FOOTIE FEVER!

WHENEVER the football season came around I'd resign myself to the lonely fate of a football widow. While my husband settled down for the winter tuned in to Sky Sports, I'd seek solace in the kitchen, preferring to find refuge in a chocolate cake and a magazine. Last season, however, I reluctantly joined him to watch Premier League coverage on Sky Sports. I was hooked! Sky Sports' live coverage takes you onto the pitch, capturing the excitement, energy and passion of the game. Now I can appreciate the despair that comes with your team's defeat and the ecstasy that comes with victory. And the after-game analysis is guaranteed to provoke some discussion, particularly since my husband supports Chelsea and I support Liverpool. Sky's football coverage has now become a regular fixture at my house. I wait with baited breath as Chelsea and Liverpool make their challenge to Manchester United's Premier League title this season. Football has come home to Hounslow. May the best team win!

Mrs Suman Sharma
Middlesex

● Congratulations, you've won our £50 prize for best letter!

THE BUNDYS MUST RETURN!

WHEN Married with Children ended on Sky One, I was totally devastated. Not only was it the funniest programme ever to be shown on Sky One, but the funniest on cable as a whole. It'd be an absolute travesty if the Bundys were not shown again.

S Morris
London

● Sky One says they have shown the majority of episodes from all 11 series three times and have fulfilled their contractual agreement. However, they do plan to show some late night episodes around Christmas time.

BUFFY MYSTERY

CAN you please tell me the name of the artist and the title of the song that was played in Buffy the Vampire Slayer before the closing credits of the double episode at the end of series two?

Kathleen Ann Gibbons
E-mail

● Sky One tells us this song is called Full of Grace and is sung by Sarah McLachlan. The track is taken from her album Surfacing (1997).

WHERE'S ELLEN?

I IMPATIENTLY waited for the September Cable Guide so I could check up on one of my favourite programmes. When it arrived my heart sank as I saw that halfway through the month Ellen had been replaced by Cybill at 9.00pm. I'm hoping that Paramount Comedy Channel will show season five of Ellen soon, even though the show was so rudely cancelled during the season by ABC in America. Please tell me that Ellen will be back on the Paramount Comedy Channel.

Hyeyoun Chung (14)
E-mail

● Paramount Comedy Channel replies: 'Ellen will definitely return to the channel in the new year and possibly in November or December - keep posted to the web-site for further details: paramountcomedy.co.uk.'

PUTT A SOCK IN IT!

BEING a lady golfer, I look forward to the limited occasions when ladies golf competitions are covered by Sky Sports. However, I am getting increasingly irritated by the constant, unnecessary chatter of the commentator, Katrina Douglas, who insists on talking virtually up to the moment the player takes her shot. Does she not realise that this is television, not radio, and we viewers might like to anticipate ourselves the type of shot the player might make, without being given a complete rundown of all the possibilities that might exist? Can no one shut her up or give her a dose of something to cure her verbal diarrhoea?

Jean White, E-mail

● Sky Sports wish to point out that this golf commentary is provided by the US host broadcaster.

ROB SCORES TOP MARKS

IT IS GREAT to watch You're on Sky Sports! with Rob McCaffrey. He's so good at handling calls and is extremely handsome. Watching Rob is pure heaven. He is top class and is far superior to the BBC presenters. Rob is 100 per cent pure dynamite! I look forward to Rob's show and miss it when it's not on. Thank you Sky Sports for giving us such a stunning presenter.

ACTING UP FOR THE CAMERA

AS A lover of sci-fi/fantasy I'm used to spending disbelief and using my imagination. These days it is a prerequisite for watching most docusoaps. Weekender, the recent offering from Sky One, is no exception. Are we really expected to believe participants aren't 'acting' for the camera? They should apply for an Equity card! I don't understand how fantasy programming such as Brimstone and Crusade are cancelled while so-called real-life dramas increase. Hold on - perhaps these programmes set in a world alien to most of us are the fantasy programmes of the future. That would be a nightmare!

Linda McGrath
Preston, Lancashire

● You may be interested to know that Sky One plans to show the one series made of Brimstone again in the future.

WAITING GAME

AS AN avid fan of Sky One's Millennium, I have been waiting patiently for it to return - but to no avail. If and when will this series return?

Mr T Langley
South Shields

● Sorry, Mr Langley, Sky One tells us they have currently not committed to a new series.

ROBBIE REPEAT?

THE Robbie Williams Concert (Sky One, 28 August) was absolutely brilliant. Does Sky One have any plans to repeat the concert?

Jon, E-mail

● Sky One says look out for a repeat of the concert around Christmas time.

FLIRTING WITH DANGER

AS A bewildered mum of two small children, I wonder is it me or do other parents share the same dilemma? During the summer holidays I've been forced to sit and watch children's programmes, only to see the presenters flirting and enjoying private jokes with each other and the camera crew. Even Disney Channel has started doing this since Emma Lee joined. I'm sure the children don't appreciate it, so less flirting and more quality programmes, please.

Mrs G Eddicott
Hampshire
